eComment: My husband and I moved to Hermosa Beach two years ago. He serves in the military and becoming a member of CrossFit Horsepower was crucial to helping us find community, falling in love with Hermosa, and embracing this beach community. It has been one of the main reasons we decided to stay in Hermosa after our first year living here. I can attest that the coaches of our gym have gone to great lengths to appease any complaints they have received. Upon my first time attending, over two years ago, the coaches let me know that in their gym we do not drop the weights and we keep the noise level down. The members respect this rule and comply. Living in a beach town is amazing but it comes with some costs, like living in close proximity to businesses. There is no way around this. I can testify that my lifestyle, my health and my love for Hermosa is greater because of CrossFit Horsepower.
